GLOBE, 418 E Douglas Av

It is not easy, even for "extremists in style," to comprehend the fascination of "veils upon veils," as worn four and five centuries ago. At one period the wives and daughters of well to do citizens were satisfied with nothing less than a framework of brass or wire rods upon which to rest the fashionable structure of such gauzy fabric as their purses could com-mand; never less than two feet, often three feet or more, the precious veiling was up-reared, floating over the shoulders like gossamer streamers. A season later additional breadths were in request as a face protector, and swiftly following came Dame Fashion's order for a limitless amount of material, to be so bowed and twisted over a starched underpinning as to reach fabulous heights. A feariess preacher of the times likened a woman wearing one of those hideous fol-de-rols among a group of men to a tall cedar surrounded by small bushes.

These and other absurd head coverings were contemporaneous, so it is affirmed, with a period marking the last agonies of feudal France and England. The dissoluteness of the times can hardly be overdrawn these exaggerations were the "outward signs of an inward and spiritual curse." An illustrated work of that period, now preserved in the British museum, informs as that all the headdresses therein por trayed "jostle each other, revealing abso late aneroby in taste."—Harner's Bazar.

Thomas Shaw has one of the largest and finest stock of pianos and organs you ever saw, bought before the advance. You should see those pianos in mahogany, oak, cedar, French walnut and rosewood. They are beauties and so cheap. 6-3t

Boys, Read this Carefully. Then go straight to your mamma's kitchen and see if she is not out of baking powder. If so, ask her for 50 cents, then run to Charles Fuller's grocery store and get a pair of Barney & Berry's club skates, with one can of baking powder. Remember, I could only get one lot of these skates, and when these are gone you will get no more.
